Noteworthy Sayings.

Good precepts we must firmly hold.—HERRICK.

A JUST man hateth the evil, but not the evil doer.—Sir P. Sidney.

THE only disadvantage of an honest heart is credulity.—Sir P. Sidney.

FRUGALITY is founded on the principle, that all riches have limits.—Burke.

THE truly valiant dare everything, but doing any other body an injury.—Sir P. Sidney.

THE certain way to be cheated is to fancy one's self more cunning than others.—Charron.

HE travels safe and not unpleasantly who is guarded by poverty and guided by love.—Sir P. Sidney.

OBSCURITY in writing is commonly an argument of darkness in the mind: the greatest learning is to be seen in the greatest plainness.—Bishop Wilkins.

WHATEVER difference there may appear to be in men's fortunes, there is still a certain compensation of good and ill in all, that makes them equal.—Charron.

A MIND too vigorous and active serves only to consume the body to which it is joined, as the richest jewels are soonest found to wear their settings.—Goldsmith.

THE lightsome countenance of a friend giveth such an inward decking to the house where it lodgeth, as proudest palaces have cause to envy the gilding.—Sir P. Sidney.

WERE there but one virtuous man in the world, he would hold up his head with confidence and honour; he would shame the world, and not the world him.—South.

MISERY assails riches, as lightning does the highest towers: or as a tree that is heavy laden with fruit breaks its own boughs, so do riches destroy the virtue of their possessor.—Burton.

IN conversation, humour is more than wit, easiness more than knowledge; few desire to learn, or to think they need it; all desire to be pleased, or, if not, to be easy.—Sir W. Temple.

'TIS the property of all true knowledge, especially spiritual, to enlarge the soul by filling it; to enlarge it without swelling it; to make it more capable, and more earnest to know, the more it knows.—Sprat.

THE shortest and surest way to live with honour in the world is to be in reality what we would appear to be; and if we observe, we shall find that all humane virtues increase and strengthen themselves by the practice and experience of them.—Socrates.

HE hath riches sufficient who hath enough to be charitable.—Sir T. Brown.

PRIDE is as loud a beggar as want, and a great deal more saucy.—Saville.

OUR greatest glory is not in never falling, but rising every time we fall.—Confucius.

AT twenty years of age the will reigns; at thirty, the wit; and at forty, the judgment.—Gratian.

No man ever offended his own conscience but first or last it was revenged upon him for it.—South.

FRIENDSHIP is the only thing in the world concerning the usefulness of which all mankind are agreed.—Cicero.

SPEAKING much is a sign of vanity; for he that is lavish in words is a niggard in deed.—Sir W. Raleigh.

PEOPLE seldom improve when they have no other model but themselves to copy after.—Goldsmith.

HE who receives a good turn should never forget it: he who does one should never remember it.—Charron.

THE wheel of fortune turns incessantly round, and who can say within himself, I shall today be uppermost.—Confucius.

IT many times falls out that we deem ourselves much deceived in others, because we first deceived ourselves.—Sir P. Sidney.

IT is usually seen that the wiser men are about the things of this world, the less wise they are about the things of the next.—Gibson.

WOUNDS and hardships provoke our courage, and when our fortunes are at the lowest, our wits and minds are commonly at the best.—Charron.

WOMEN have more strength in their looks than we have in our laws, and more power by their tears than we have by our arguments.—Saville.

POWER and liberty are like heat and moisture: where they are well mixed everything prospers; where they are single they are destructive.—Saville.

EVERYONE that has been long dead has a due proportion of praise allotted him, in which, whilst he lived, his friends were too profuse and his enemies too sparing.—Adisson.

IT is certain that either wise bearing or ignorant carriage is caught, as men take diseases, one of another; therefore, let men take heed of their company.—Shakespeare.

WE should feel sorrow, but not sink under its oppression: the heart of a wise man should resemble a mirror, which reflects every object without being sullied by any.—Confucius.

On Trial.

Does Fortune try thee? She had cause to do't;
She wish'd thee abstinent: obey, be mute!

—CARLYLE'S "WILHELM MEISTER."

Joyful Company.

A merry companion is as good as a nag.

She: "What do you consider the things that make life worth living?" He: "The things we don't possess."

"Why do they call our language the mother tongue, pa?" "Because your father never gets a chance to use it, my son."

"So she has lost her husband? Has she recovered from her grief yet?" "Not yet. You know how slow those insurance companies are in settling."

Ella: "Mother doesn't want me to marry." Stella: "Does she say so?" Ella: "No; but she tells everybody that at my age she looked just as I do now."

Tommy: "Pa, what does the paper mean when it says, 'comment is unnecessary'?"

Mr. Figg: "It means that the writer didn't know what to say."

Mrs. Homer: "You can't go home while it is raining so. Stay and have dinner with us."

Mr. Witless: "Oh, no, thank you. It isn't so bad as all that."

First Explorer:

"We must hurry back."

Second Explorer:

"But the North Pole is ours if we keep on." "But if we don't get back now, we'll be too late for the lecture season."

Poeticus: "Have you read Shakespeare's 'Love's Labour's Lost'?" Cynicus: "No; but I've taken a girl to the theatre and she has talked to the man next to her all through the evening."

"I UNDERSTAND you were going to call on Miss Pert this afternoon." "We changed our minds." "What caused you to do that?" "Why, we learned at the last moment that she was at home."

"TROUBLED with sleeplessness, eh? Eat something before going to bed." "Why, doctor, you once told me never to eat anything before going to bed!" "That, madam, was in 1901. Science has made great strides since then."

Old Sicanaité: "Why do you feel that your client will lose his case? Have you exhausted every means at your disposal to —"

Young Briefly: "No; but I have exhausted all the means at his disposal."

Mother: "Now, Bobby, if you'll be good for ten minutes I'll give you a penny."

Bobby: "Can't do it, mother. Our boys' 'Be Good Union' has fixed the amalgamated scale at a penny for three minutes."

Wife: "I've quit asking people if my bonnet is on straight." The Husband: "Why, my dear?" The Wife: "I love you too much, John, to disgrace you by calling anybody's attention to an old bonnet like this."

Tommy: "What is it that makes men great, papa?" Papa: "Persistent advertising, my son."

"WHAT'S the use of arguing with a woman?" "True. But think of the pleasure it gives the woman."

Bloom: "I am glad I met your wife. She seemed to take a fancy to me." Pecque: "Did she? I wish you'd met her sooner."

"Is Bunkins as good as his word?" asked one business man. "I think he is," replied the other. "His word isn't good for anything."

Nellie: "Do you think Paul cares for Gertie?" Emma: "Did you ever hear a young man refer to a red-haired girl as having auburn tresses unless he loved her?"

Her Father: "What? You say you're engaged to Fred? I thought I told you not to give him any encouragement?" His Daughter: "I don't. He doesn't need any."

Mistress: "Now, remember, Bridget, the Joneses are coming to dinner tonight." Cook: "Leave it to me, mum. I'll do me worst! They'll never trouble yez again!"

Archie: "See how I am hunted after; all these are invitations." Friend: "Good gracious! All invitations? Invitations to what?"

Archie: "To call as soon as possible and settle accounts." Customer: "Why doesn't that Miss Brown deal at your shop any more?" Grocer: "One of my clerks insulted her." Customer: "How?" Grocer: "She overheard him telling someone that she was our oldest customer."

"STILL a bachelor? When I met you last spring you told me you were soon to be married." "I did talk seriously of it, but found that the state of my finances demanded that I either remain single or struggle along without a bicycle!"

Mr. Millions: "My dear prince, you are engaged to my daughter—I feel so sorry for you both—but the crash has come. I'm a ruined man." The Prince: "Oh, dot vas all right, my dear sir. Don't you vorry about me. I can soon get another heiress."

A VERY just complaint was brought before a bishop that a certain clergyman in the diocese was wearing an Oxford Master's hood, when, as a matter of fact, he had no such degree. "I call it, my lord," said the complainant, "wearing a lie on his back." "We need not use quite so strong a word, Mr. Smith," the bishop replied in his blindest manner; "call it a falsehood."

The Sower.

The golden seeds thou trusteth to the Earth;
And dost thou doubt the Eternal Spring sublime
For deeds—the seeds which Wisdom sows in Time?*

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

ALL unoccupied plots of ground should be deeply dug and laid up in ridges. In suitable weather, and on any sheltered borders, sow peas, beans, two-bladed onions, York cabbages, horn carrots and parsnips. In severe weather give protection by spreading down dry litter and placing reed hurdles so as to screen off the wind. Plant deciduous trees in open weather. Dress fruit trees and old trees with a mixture of lime, soot, and clay. Never prune during frost. The protection of choice plants will now require particular care; danger from frost becomes more serious as the sun gains power. Water plants in pots sparingly.

AN OLD HOUSE AT BRAMBER, SUSSEX.

KING EDWARD VII.

ON a preceding page we give a recent portrait of King Edward VII., in whose life the following are the leading events:—

- 1841—Birth at Buckingham Palace, 9th November.
- 1860—Visited Canada and the United States.
- 1862—Visited the Holy Land.
- 1863—Married Princess Alexandra of Denmark.
- 1871—Serious illness (typhoid fever).
- 1872—Public thanksgiving in St. Paul's Cathedral.
- 1875-6—Tour through India.
- 1901—Ascended the throne, 22nd January.
- 1902—Serious illness. Coronation (Aug. 9th).

SUCH IS FAME.

A well-known novelist was the recipient of the following letter from one of his readers:—

“Dear Sir,—Pardon the liberty I am taking. In your clever story you mention Browning being splendid for the nerves. Is there such a thing? Would you give me the address to obtain it? I am suffering dreadfully from nervousness. Under such circumstances you will accept my apology for troubling.—Yours faithfully.”

The same writer tells another story, illustrating the limited knowledge of poetry possessed by the public:—

“One morning I advised a young lady to attend a lecture on Keats.

“She asked in a tone of doubt:—

“‘What are Keats?’”

AN HISTORIC HOUSE.

At Bramber, near Lancing, is an old house which, according to tradition, was built of timber from the wrecks of the Spanish Armada. The house is historically interesting otherwise from the fact that King James II. spent the night there before he made for Shoreham to take boat for France in 1688.

KISSING THE BLARNEY
STONE.

BLARNEY CASTLE is, of course, celebrated because of the wonderful stone which has given a verb and a noun to the English language, and which no wise tourist leaves Erin without at least once pressing reverentially to his lips. Unfortunately, the real Blarney Stone is situated just below the parapet of the tower battlement, and it is whispered that the difficulty and danger of reaching it are so great that another Blarney Stone was, a long time ago, substituted in a more convenient spot.

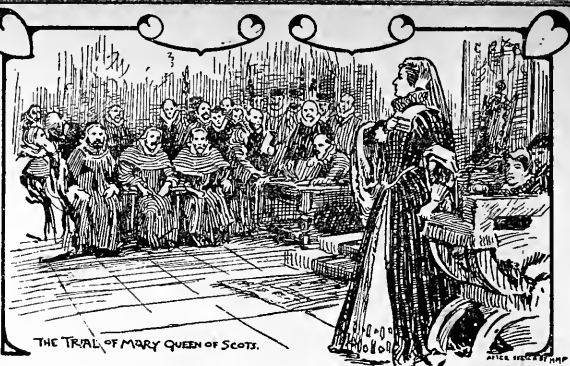

The verses originally written concerning the power of this remarkable stone are worth quoting, so quaint and so typically Irish are they—

*There is a stone there that whoever kisses,
Oh! he never misses to grow eloquent;
'Tis he may clamber to my lady's chamber,
Or become a Member of Parliament.*

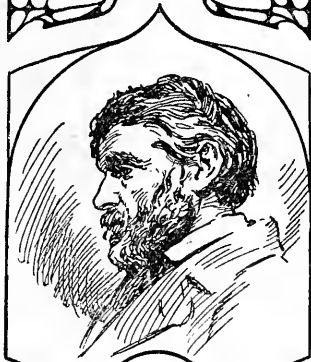

*A clever spouter he'll sure turn out, or
An out and outer, to let well alone!
Don't hope to hinder him or to bewilder him,
Sure he's a pilgrim from the Blarney Stone.*

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

In the kitchen garden get ground ready for summer crops. Plant potatoes on dry soil as soon as possible. In the open quarters sow peas, beans, parsnips, spinach, leeks. In the flower garden edgings, rockeries, walks, lawns, and rosaries may all be made or planted this month. Part and plant herbaceous plants. Plant ranunculuses and anemones. Sow hardy annuals in pans, so as to get them forward for planting out. If made early this month strawberry beds bear well. Plant and prune bush fruit. Begin grafting whenever the weather permits.

THE MARRIAGE OF PRINCESS MARGARET OF CONNAUGHT.

GOT ENGAGED.

A MANLY boy of fifteen entered the office of a London merchant and asked for employment. He gave satisfactory answers to a few questions, and then the merchant inquired: "What is your motto?"

"Same as yours, sir," the boy replied; "just what you have on your door—Push."

He was promptly engaged.

IN LOVE WITH BEAUTY.

ONE man's joy is another man's commonplace.

Rauch, the great Berlin sculptor, in whom love of Greek art was a passion, was once taken to the British Museum, where they showed him some perfect specimens of Greek coins. He gazed for some time at them in silence, and then they saw tears streaming down his face.

"To-day I have seen for the first time the perfection of beauty exactly as it came from the hands of those who created it," he said.

A ROYAL MARRIAGE.

THE marriage of Princess Margaret of Connaught to Prince Gustave Adolphus of Sweden and Norway, was one of the joyful events of 1905. It took place on the 1st of June, in St. George's Chapel, Windsor Castle. The Archbishop of Canterbury, assisted by the Bishop of Oxford, conducted the marriage service, and delivered the address to the newly-married pair at its conclusion.

After the ceremony the bride and bridegroom took luncheon with the king and queen and other royal personages. In the afternoon they left Windsor Castle for Saughton, Cheshire, being enthusiastically greeted on their way to the railway station.

MATRIMONIAL ECCENTRICITY.

A STARTLING example of eccentricity in marriage is met with in the life of Sir Gerlaise Clifton, whose history of Jamaica is one of the finest books of its kind. He married no fewer than seven times, and each time selected his lady from among his domestic servants. The seventh Lady Clifton outlived her lord, but the other six he buried in a family mausoleum which cost £50,000.

THE JUDGE AND THE CABMAN.

LORD BRAMPTON, better known as Sir Henry Hawkins, the famous judge, had many amusing adventures with cabmen. It was Sir Henry's invariable practice to give his cabman the exact legal fare, and when one day he dismounted at the Carey Street entrance to the Law Courts and put a shilling into his Jehu's hands, the latter gave a withering look, and, as he whipped up his horse, called out:

"Well, I'm blessed! and I help to pay that man five thousand quid a year!"

IN A JAPANESE THEATRE.

THE stage management of a Japanese theatre is still of a primitive character.

The curtain is lowered by a man who runs across the stage with it, and to raise it he runs back again. The audience see him do it, of course, but they are in nowise disturbed by the spectacle.

The entrances and exits are also peculiar. The "wings" are as far away from the stage as possible; the actor makes his entrance from the point where the pit door would be in an English theatre, and he has to speed along a gangway plank leading right through the auditorium before he can reach the stage.

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

THE main crops of all vegetables should now be sown, choosing a soil that was well-manured last year. Sow cabbages, carrots, onions, asparagus, parsnips, parsley, kidney beans, &c. Plant potatoes. Sow lettuce, mustard and cress, &c., about every fortnight for succession. Sow hardy annuals in the borders. Cuttings of bush fruits may still be put in. Pruning and clearing ought to have been long ago completed. Burn all the prunings and clippings of trees, hedges, &c., and use the ashes for top dressing.

SCOTT'S MONUMENT AND EDINBURGH CASTLE.

A KIND OFFER.

THE well-known author of "In His Steps"—the Rev. R. M. Sheldon—is in great demand for starting young couples on their matrimonial ventures. The other evening two came to his house to be married.

Having performed the ceremony, he observed the bridegroom fumbling in his pockets. "I guess I ain't got a durn cent. to pay you for the performance, parson," he said, with a crestfallen face, "but I ken tell you how to fix your gas meter so it won't register a foot a month."

EARLY DAYS OF PICTURE POST-CARDS.

SOMETHING very like picture post-cards existed in the eighteenth century. In the "Almanach de la Petite Post" for 1777 we read—"It is the vogue at present to send by the post, as an act of politeness, or in order to offer congratulations, pictures in the form of cards, which are frequently accompanied by written communications, and are despatched open, and visible to all. There has been much talk of this novelty, invented by the engraver Demaison; and many people complain that it encourages the malevolent curiosity of domestic servants, who are thus enabled to learn the business of persons of fashion." It appears, however, that the first picture post-card which was really a post-card was of German origin, and was sent from Oldenburg to Magdeberg on July 16, 1870.

THE SCOTT MONUMENT.

THE Scott Monument in the East Princes Street Gardens at Edinburgh has "secured the admiration of Europe and the appreciation of the highest judges of architecture in every country." It has the form of a beautiful Gothic spire two hundred feet in height, with Scott's statue underneath the canopy.

The monument was erected at a cost of about £16,000, and is adorned with statues of prominent characters in Scott's works, and with likenesses of famous Scottish poets. It was designed by George Meikle Kemp, the son of a shepherd on the Pentland Hills, who when a boy of ten had his enthusiasm stirred by a visit he paid to Roslin Chapel, and subsequently devoted his life to the study of Gothic architecture. Unhappily, the young architect did not see the work completed, for he was one night accidentally drowned in the Union Canal.

"The Scott Monument," says the architect's biographer, "has been visited from every land; engravings of it are diffused over the wide earth, and as long as it stands in its majestic and imposing beauty, the pilgrims of future centuries who gaze upon it in silent admiration will connect the builder with whom it commemorates."

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

SUCCESSIONAL sowings may be made of all the principal kitchen crops. The main crop of carrots should be got in about the middle of the month. Parsnips should be sown without delay. Sow hardy annuals and perennials early: the more tender kinds may be committed to the ground towards the end of the month. Perennials may be planted out. Dahlia roots may also be planted. Protect the shoots during night frosts. Walks should be turned and rolled and grass plots dressed. Wall-trees must be protected from the k e an east wind.

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

With vegetable crops frequently stir between the rows with the hoe to keep down weeds, and supply not only water, but liquid manure. It is hardly possible to give too much water. Put sticks to rows of peas as soon as they require support. Thin parsnips and carrots.

Choose showery weather, if possible, for transplanting. Sow beans and peas for succession; savory for late crops. Cabbages, broccoli, beetroot, kale, kidney beans (both dwarf and runners), lettuce, spinach, turnips, &c., may now be sown in the open ground for a late supply.

A GREAT EARTHQUAKE IN INDIA.

AN EARTHQUAKE IN INDIA.

On the 4th of April, 1905, India was visited by an earthquake of a most appalling character. The district chiefly affected was that around Lahore and Missoorie. In all 39 Europeans, British officers and Civil servants, and their wives and children, were killed. At Dhamsala nearly 500 men of the 7th and 1st Battalions and Gurkhas were buried alive, whilst the loss of life amongst the natives ran into over 15,000.

No disaster it is said in all the British Empire has within recent times ever approached this cataclysm in point of damage and loss of life.

S-M-I-T-H.

How many possible ways are there of spelling the famous name of Smith?

We had imagined that some of the descendants of the original patriarch of that name, who vary it according to their fancy, as Smythe, Smithe, or Smyth, and their foreign relatives, Schmitt, Schmitz, Schmid, and so on, had already rung all the possible changes.

But it seems not, as a German resident in Portugal, whose patronymic is Schmitz, has discovered to his cost. He has been writing home to Cologne complaining of the spelling of his name adopted by various Portuguese correspondents. Here are a few of them:—Smhytis, Scimithz, Xemite, Chemitz, and Schemeth. The last has a fine Oriental suggestion about it which is far from displeasing.

We willingly dedicate the list to any aristocratic Smythe who may wish to remove himself yet a step further from his rightful clan.

THE DECEPTIVE PENNY.

It is a curious fact that we have in the penny a symbol representing double what it actually is worth. Many of us remember that our pennies used to be much larger than they are to-day; they are now worth about a halfpenny in metal, and as representing the twelfth part of a shilling they are deceptive and seriously lacking in substance.

Small Boy: Please, sir, master wants "Won by Flattery."

Assistant: Don't know the book. You had better go back and find out if that's the right title.

Small Boy (a few minutes later): I was right, sir. Any one will do so long as it ain't "Vanity Flare."

Enlightened Assistant: You mean one by Thackeray.

Small Boy: Oh, yes, sir, that's it. One by Flackeray.

THE CRYSTAL PALACE.

The glass palace at Sydenham was first erected in Hyde Park for the Exhibition of 1851, and was rebuilt, with additions, in its present position in 1854. It is composed of a spacious central hall or nave 1,608 feet long, with lateral sections, two aisles, and two transepts. A third transept at the north end, which formed a palm house of imposing dimensions, was burned down in 1866.

The cost of the whole undertaking, including the magnificent garden and grounds, and much additional land outside, amounted to a million and a half sterling.

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

KEEP the hoe busy, for weeds grow faster than the crops and exhaust the soil rapidly. Cucumbers, gourds, tomatoes and capsicums may be put out. Sow peas and beans for late crops. Sow salad every ten days; also carrots and onions for drawing young. In the flower-garden carnations, picotees and pinks may now be propagated by pipings on the north side of a wire fence, or in pots half filled with sandy loam. Ranunculuses will require water frequently. Perennials should be sown for next season's blossoming.

TORREY-ALEXANDER MISSION IN LONDON.

TIME RECKONED IN QUEER WAYS.

THE boundary riders of the great Australian sheep ranches have each a district to look after, in which one must keep the wire fences in repair, and see that the sheep come to no harm. It is a hard life, living as each boundary rider does, quite alone in the wilderness.

A writer tells of some of the curious ways in which these men keep count of the days.

One old man who had lived in the back country for thirty years, used two jam tins and seven pebbles. One tin was marked, "This week," and the other "Last week." On Monday morning he would take a pebble from "Last week" and drop it into "This week," and each subsequent morning, till "This week" had swallowed the seven. They were returned to "Last week," and he knew that another Sunday had passed.

Another man had tried and failed with several plans. At last he hit on a new idea. He made a big damper (cake of flour and water) on Sunday night, and marked it into seven sections, each section being a day's allowance, so that every time he picked up the damper the grooves would remind him of the day. Unfortunately, one Tuesday there came a visitor with a ravenous appetite. The host stinted himself that the hungry one might be satisfied with the day's section. But he wasn't. With anxious eyes the host saw the knife clearing the boundary line and the hungry man ruthlessly carving into his almanac. At last he could stand it no longer. "Stop! stop!" he cried, as he grabbed the damper, and glared at it.

"There," he said, "you've eaten Toosday and We'n'sday, and now yer wanter slice the best o' the mornin' o' Thursday, an' I won't know the day o' the week."

THE TORREY-ALEXANDER MISSION.

A RELIGIOUS mission in London on a huge scale, under the leadership of the famous American Evangelists, Dr. R. A. Torrey and Mr. C. M. Alexander, was one of the interesting features of the first half of 1905.

The Mission opened at the Albert Hall on the 4th of February, was conducted at various metropolitan centres, and was brought to a close by a thanksgiving service early in July.

During the five months that the Mission lasted two hundred and two meetings were held, and at these the aggregate attendance was 1,114,650. The invitations distributed were 4,370,675, the calls in house-to-house visitations were 575,000, and the enquirers registered numbered 13,675. The cost came to £17,000. Of this sum the London Evangelistic Council contributed £10,000, and the balance was made up by collections.

MEMORIES.

*Thou with each taut strand dost music make,
Music sweet and clear,
And the soft notes of thine awake
The sound—"O, poor folk's food is dear."
While here I list thy notes the louder rise,
Each played to cheer;
With magic touch each outward flies,
Sounding—"O, poor folk's food is dear."
Enraptured I stand, but O my heart is sad,
And sorrow drear
Loud, loud keeps knocking where mirth had
A dwelling place for many a year.
O, music sweet, thou often soothest woe,
And dryest the tear;
But not to-night thy loudest, richest flow
Can drown the words—"Poor folk's food is dear."*

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

KEEP the whole surface of the garden as free from weeds as possible. When early crops are coming off in the kitchen garden, it is wise to clear the ground and dig it over at once. Sow peas for the last crop of the season in the first week of this month. Seed beds for winter spinach should now be made up and well manured, and the seed got in without delay. Earth up celery for winter use. Plant out the main crop of celery whenever the ground can be got ready. Gather and dry medicinal and pot herbs.

THE ASSASSINATION OF THE GRAND DUKE SERGIUS.

A POLITICAL ASSASSINATION.

THE Grand Duke Sergius, uncle of the Czar of Russia, was assassinated in Moscow on the 17th of February, 1905. A bomb was thrown under his carriage as he was passing close to the Law Courts. The explosion was so great that all the windows in the Law Courts were smashed, and the report was heard outside the city. The Grand Duke was killed instantaneously. He had for a considerable time acted as Governor-General of Moscow, his official residence being in the Kremlin, and he was very unpopular.

THE KING AND QUEEN OF PORTUGAL.

ON preceding pages we give portraits, from photos taken in Lisbon, of the King of Portugal and his queen. Carlos I. was born on the 28th of September, 1863, and previous to his accession was known as the Duke of Braganza. He married, in May, 1886, Marie Amélie, daughter of the Comte de Paris, and three years thereafter came to the Crown on the death of his father. It is to be mentioned as a praiseworthy circumstance that during the financial difficulties of 1892, King Carlos and the royal family renounced 20 per cent. of the endowments paid them by the nation, thereby sacrificing £23,000 a year.

His Majesty, together with the Queen, arrived at Windsor on a state visit to King Edward and Queen Alexandra on November 15th, 1904. They were entertained at luncheon by the City Corporation at the Guildhall on the 17th. On leaving Windsor Castle they visited the Duke and Duchess of Devonshire at Chatsworth, and the Duke of Orleans at Wood Norton, and the King subsequently visited Welbeck Abbey.

THE FIRST PHOTOGRAPH IN ENGLAND.

LORD AVEBURY, known as "The St. Lublock of the Bank Holidays," was the first person in England to have his photograph taken.

M. Daguerre, the co-inventor of the art of photography, came to London to patent his discovery, and paid an early visit to the present Lord Avebury's father. He was explaining the details of his invention very enthusiastically, when he beheld the little son of his host playing about in the garden, and at once asked permission to use him as a subject, in order to give a practical demonstration of the art. This was given, and resulted in a very successful photograph, the first ever taken in this country.

THE EYE OF LORD KITCHENER.

A VERY formidable picture of Lord Kitchener is given by a correspondent who accompanied him on one of his campaigns.

"When he steps out of his tent and sends his gaze travelling round the semicircle of his view everyone feels uncomfortable. It has been admirably described by one who experienced it: 'I finched, though I was doing nothing wrong; the subaltern stopped talking to me as though caught in a theft; a soldier who was driving in tent-pegs dropped his tools and began to fumble at his buttons; upon all sides there was an instant of extreme discomfort until the great man went in again.' And his eyes are always the same—brutal, piercing, pitiless, the eyes of a man whom a sweating orderly once described as 'like the bloomin' Day of Judgment.'"

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

DURING this month watering is often essential. Cabbages of most kinds may be sown in the second week of the month. Sow cauliflower from the 7th to the 20th, to keep over winter in frames. Sow winter and spring spinach in the beginning and about the end of the month.

Parsley and winter onions for a full crop in the first week, small salads occasionally. A few coleworts may still be planted. In the flower garden propagate plants for stock. Pansies may be sown, as may also most hardy annuals, to stand over winter, for early blossoming.

THE GARDENER'S ART IN JAPAN.

A JAPANESE gardener does not strive after bright colours; he does not lay out beds mechanically, or seek the trim, the artificial. His object is to counterfeit a natural scene as nearly as possible. Above all, he strives to eliminate every sign of his work.

He cheats your eye into a loss of all sense of perspective. By judiciously selecting his trees, and keeping every object on a small scale, he can make you imagine that his garden is very much longer than it is, and somehow he manages to deceive you as to its boundaries by artful arrangements of shrubs and stonework. He is a past master of landscape gardening craft.

DIFFERENT NOTIONS FROM OURS.

IT will be a long time before the Europeans and Chinese begin to understand each other. A short time back a Chinese coolie met with an accident.

He was taken to a European hospital in Pekin, and it was there found possible to save his life by prompt amputation of one of his legs.

The glad news was carried to his relatives. Without loss of time they procured a supply of arsenic, with which the whole family proceeded to the sick man's bedside.

When their mutual feelings had been feelingly exchanged the patient swallowed the arsenic and died.

Without wishing in any way to hurt the feelings of the European doctors, he yet felt it incumbent upon himself to reach Heaven before it should be too late to claim the leg, which had preceded him there.

HOW NURSERY STORIES BEGAN.

Most of the nursery legends have a historical origin.

"The Babes in the Wood" were long supposed to be the two Princes murdered in the Tower by order of Richard III. It is now known that the story refers to a crime committed in the district of Wayland Wood, Norfolk, in the fifteenth century.

"Humpty Dumpty" was a wicked baron who lived in a castle in the days of King John. His fall from power was put into the form of a riddle, the shell of the egg signifying the stone castle.

"Sing a Song of Sixpence" was a ballad of the days of James I.—1603. The birds are the twenty-four hours, the crust of the pie the sky, the dish the earth, the King the sun, the money his golden rays, the Queen in the dark pantry the moon.

"Bluebeard" was a ballad written by a French author on the doings of Marshal de Retz, a nobleman of Brittany, executed for sorcery and murder in 1444. The ballad was not published till 1697.

"Cinderella," "Tom Thumb," and "Jack the Giant Killer" were written by the same author.

"WAS THE QUEEN TOUCHED?"

QUEEN VICTORIA was greatly moved at the distribution of the Crimean medals, but her grief was not apparent to those less sympathetic.

"Was the Queen touched?" a lady asked Lord Panmure.

"Bless my heart, no," was the reply. "She had a brass railing before her, and no one could touch her."

"I mean, was she moved?" the lady continued, and was answered,

"Moved! she had no occasion to move!"

TOP AND BOTTOM PRICES.

THE holder of Consols to-day is familiar with the fact that the lowest recorded price for his stock was the 47 $\frac{3}{8}$ of 1797, and the highest the 114 of 1896. Perhaps he is not so familiar with the fact that it took Consols ninety-three years to struggle up to par.

But the official record of 47 $\frac{3}{8}$ was not actually the bottom price. There was living not so long ago a man whose father, when the rebellion at the Nore was at its height, bought Consols at 46. He knew another man who had bought at 44 $\frac{3}{8}$.

SCHOOL EXAMINATION STORIES.

A SCHOOL INSPECTOR who finds a good deal of mirth in his calling has been treasuring up the funniest answers given by boys and girls to his questions. Here are some of them:—

"A professor" is "a gentleman that generally plays at balls." How true it is that an M.P. is "a gentleman who tries to make laws"! "A negro is a man what eats missionaries." A school board is—and this remark seems to merit "How true!" on the margin as much as any phrase in a lady's novel from the circulating library—"a place where people talk about education to make you vote for them."

An inspector in orders was trying to make a class form words. "Now," he said, "I am a man. What kind of a man am I?" He wanted to extract the compound noun "clergyman."

"A short man, sir."

"Yes, yes," said he, a little huffed. "That is, I am not a particularly tall man. But that is not quite the kind of word I want. Can anyone else try?"

"Little man, sir."

"Well, that's about equal to short, isn't it? Try again."

"Ugly little man, sir!"

A SUBTLE MASTER.

I know,

*Of no more subtle master under heaven
Than is the maiden passion for a maid:
Not only to keep down the base in man,
But teach high thoughts and amiable words,
And courtliness, and the desire of fame,
And love of truth, and all that makes a man.*

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

A FEW salads for late crops may now be sown. Gather seeds as fast as they ripen. Take up potatoes as the tops wither; carrots and beetroot may remain till the frost cuts off the foliage, but no longer. This is the best season for forming new beds of horseradish.

Plant endive and lettuce. Lift onions and place them on a dry border or gravel walk. Remove decayed flower stems and keep the borders free of weeds. Plant out pinks and carnations and roots and cuttings of herbaceous plants. Plant evergreens.

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

MAKE a general clearance in the kitchen garden of the ground wherever there are vacant spaces, and ridge up all plots not to be planted on during the winter. Sow small salads and radishes in the first week; mazagan beans and early frame peas in the last week. Plant cabbages in beds or close rows till wanted in spring. This is the best season for making plantations of rhubarb for producing next spring. Let the ground be deeply dug and well manured. Chrysanthemums should be securely staked against heavy rains and winds.

THE CAPITULATION OF PORT ARTHUR.

THE CAPITULATION OF PORT ARTHUR.

ON New Year's Day, at nine o'clock at night, General Stoessel surrendered Port Arthur to the Japanese, after sustaining a siege of ten months and a half. The siege began on the 17th of February, 1904, and was prosecuted by the Japanese with wonderful perseverance and regardless of sacrifice in the attainment of their object. The garrison were allowed to march out with colours flying, drums beating, and all the honours of war.

THE MONUMENT.

THE Doric Column on Fish Street Hill, London, known as "The Monument," was reared in 1671-1677 from Wren's designs, to commemorate the Great Fire. It is surmounted by a flaming urn of brass, 42 feet high, and its total height of 202 feet represents its distance from the site of the baker's house in Pudding Lane (running parallel with Fish Street Hill on the east), where the conflagration began.

The staircase within the column contains 345 steps, and these lead to a platform commanding one of the most interesting views in London, and covered by a sufficiently ugly cage, which was added after a case of suicide—the fifth that had occurred there—in 1842.

There used to be a legend on the west side of the pediment attributing the fire to the treachery and malice of the Popish faction, but that has been erased. It was this libel, founded only on the self-accusation of a crazy youth of the name of Herbert, who, though he was hanged, was believed by his judges to be innocent, that elicited from Pope the familiar couplet:

*Where London's column, pointing to the skies,
Like a tall bully lifts its head and lies.*

TOLSTOI ON SHAKESPEARE

It may be taken for a fact that Tolstoi never jokes, but his recent references to Shakespeare look rather like a jest. "Clear your mind," he says, "of all that you have read of Shakespeare, and read the works themselves very carefully. Then you will rise with the conviction that the reputation for transcendent genius is due to a condition of folly and moral cowardice.

"The fact is that scarcely anyone nowadays reads Shakespeare, though everyone prates about him. He is talked of as indisputable, immortal, and the perfect intellect. His works are a crude harlequinade, in which clowns, jesters, heroes, heroines, queens, fine ladies, warriors, and witches are jumbled together without reason and frequently without rhyme."

REALISM WITH A VENGEANCE.

THERE is the story of the man who, boasting of his blackbird being able to whistle "Home, Sweet Home" so beautifully that tears came to the eyes of those who listened, was silenced by his friend, who owned a bird that could whistle "The Village Blacksmith" so realistically that the sparks flew out of its bill.

This is, however, beaten by the latest story, which has to do with two pavement artists. One of these brothers of the chalk said that he once drew a tin can so true to life that an old gentleman tripped over it and broke his leg.

"That's nothing," said his rival; "I once drew a herring so perfectly that when the sun got round to it it went bad, and the food inspector came along and took my name."

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

Much of the work of this month is connected with the cultivation and amelioration of the soil. Whatever digging and trenching are required, let it be done without delay. In the flower garden whatever is of too tender a nature to bear exposure to frost should be got under cover without delay. Bulbs should be planted as soon as possible, both in beds and borders. Gather any seeds that remain out and dry indoors. Plant deciduous trees and shrubs as long as the weather continues favourable and before the soil has parted with the solar heat.

COMPLETING THE LONGEST TUNNEL IN THE WORLD.

THE SIMPLON TUNNEL.

AT ten o'clock on the morning of Friday, the 24th of February, 1905, just six and a half years after the work had been commenced in 1898, the borings for the Simplon Tunnel from the Swiss and Italian sides were joined together.

The piercing of the St. Gothard was an event of twenty-five years ago, but the St. Gothard Tunnel is now eclipsed in length by the now completed Simplon, which measures $12\frac{1}{2}$ miles against the $9\frac{1}{4}$ miles of the St. Gothard.

The successful completion of the piercing of the Simplon is regarded in engineering circles as one of the greatest tasks in mountain boring which has ever been accomplished. By its means a great shortening of the route to Milan has been accomplished.

A QUAIN EPITAPH.

In a commonplace book, compiled many years ago, occurs the following quaint epitaph, which the compiler says he met with in a churchyard at Winchester.

"This stone was erected to the memory of William Harrison, a grenadier of the North Hants, by his comrades as a mark of their esteem and concern. He died August 4, 1764.

"Here lies in peace a Hampshire Grenadier, Who caught his death by drinking weak small beer; Soldiers, be wise from his untimely fall, And when ye're dry, drink strong—or none at all."

"This memorial having become decayed, was renewed by the officers of the Brigade of Royal Artillery, and of the West Kent and Sussex Regiments in garrison at Winchester, 1781.

"An honest soldier never is forgot, Whether he die by musket—or by pot."

IMPROVING A STORY.

ALEXANDER DUMAS was one day relating an adventure of which Adolphe de Leuven and himself were the heroes. When he had finished Adolphe whispered to him:—

"As far as I can recollect the affair happened in quite another fashion."

"So it did," replied Dumas, "but the way I told it made it appear far more striking."

THE ORIGIN OF PENS.

PENS made of quills were first used about the year 600. This is indicated by the fact that the word penna, a quill, is not found, it is claimed, in any work bearing an earlier date. Previous to that time the word calamus, signifying a reed, was exclusively employed as a designation for the vehicle used in transferring ink to the parchment or other surface selected by the writer at that early age.

Steel pens first came into use in 1803, and about twenty-two years later pens made of gold appeared.

ANCIENT BEDS.

IN ancient times the beds we read about were simply rugs, skins, or thin mattresses, which could be rolled up and carried away in the morning. At night they were spread on the floor, which, in the better class of houses, was of tile or plaster, and as the shoes were not worn in the house, and the feet were washed before entering a room, the floors were cleaner than ours. After a time a sort of bench, 3 ft. wide, built around two or three sides of the room about a foot above the floor, and covered with a soft cushion, was used during the day to sit or lounge on, and as a sleeping-place at night. The bench was sometimes made like a settee, movable and of carved wood or ivory.

GARDENING FOR THE MONTH.

THE state of the weather often now interferes with outdoor operations; all work which can be advanced within doors should therefore be attended to. Make a plantation of sea-kale, rhubarb, asparagus and horseradish. Roots of dandelion, packed together in leaf mould, and put into gentle heat, all furnish a delicate salad in five or six weeks. This is a good time to make new drains, improve watercourses, and plant hedges. Take up tea roses that are in exposed situations and lay them in a shed out of the reach of frost.

KING EDWARD ON A VISIT TO FRANCE.

THE KING'S VISIT TO FRANCE.

IN the spring of 1905 King Edward had an enjoyable four weeks' holiday abroad. He left London on the 6th of April to join Queen Alexandra at Marseilles. On the way he had an interview at Pierrefitte Station, a few miles outside Paris, with President Loubet. He arrived at Marseilles on the 7th of the month, and on the following day left with Queen Alexandra on the Royal yacht for a cruise in the Mediterranean. The Victoria and Albert, with the Royal party on board, returned to Marseilles on the 28th of April, and the King proceeded thence to Paris, where he arrived on the 29th, and was entertained in the evening to dinner by the President. During the few days His Majesty spent in Paris he paid a visit to M. Blanc's racing stables, to the St. Cloud races, and to various theatres. He returned to London from Paris on the 4th of May.

IN OLD ENGLAND.

HERE is an interesting advertisement from the Times of November 6th, 1804:—

"Any Gentleman in Office, who would wish to resign, or who has interest to procure an Appointment of Consideration under Government, or in any civil department from £200 to £500 a year, will be treated with upon the most liberal terms, an advance made in proportion to its value, and that with whatever delicacy may be required. The Advertiser flatters himself that his interest is sufficient to give facility to any resignation that should be desired; he is used to active life, and capable of undertaking any employment that requires confidence and a general knowledge of business.

"A line, post-paid, directed C. T. at Mr. Massey's, Librarian, Park-street, Grosvenor-square, will meet immediate attention."

INTERESTED IN ONE'S FUNERAL.

OCCASIONALLY, a medical friend tells us, he has met with people who take a great interest in their own funerals, down even to minute details as to what shall be eaten at the burial feast.

An old man he knew was told by his wife as he lay a-dying that there would be great difficulty in getting his coffin out of the little closet in which he lay owing to the scanty room. The old man (he was over ninety) managed to crawl out of bed, carefully measured the width of the passage and staircase, and then, knowing his own dimensions, went cheerfully back to bed to die; there was room.

Copies of these are kept at Somerset House, and may be searched on payment of a fee of one shilling. If a certified copy of any entry be required, the charge for that, in addition to the shilling for the search, is two shillings and sevenpence, which includes a penny for stamp duty. MARRIAGES.

In the case of marriage by banns, if the contracting parties reside in different parishes, the publication must be made in the churches of each parish for three consecutive Sundays. CHARIOTS of the LORD.

With 15 full-page Pictures by ADOLF THIEDE. Cr. 8vo, cloth gilt 3/6

JOSEPH HOCKING is one of the most popular writers of our time. "The Chariots of the Lord" will be found to be an advance on any of his former books, both for the interest of the story and the vigour and passion of the style. The time is the close of the reign of James II., when the conduct of that Roman Catholic King, and the infamous Judge Jeffreys, sinned England to its depths, and made Englishmen look for deliverance across the seas. A most interesting love story is interwoven amid thrilling historical incident.

By SILAS K. HOCKING.

The Daily Chronicle says: "It is one of the best stories that Mr. Bloundelle-Burton has written."

Babylon," begins in this Number. In its stories, serials, and articles "The Quiver" does not sacrifice literary style to so-called smartness. It is a purely English magazine, and its contents are literature in the real old English sense.

A leading weekly journal says:—

"'The Quiver,' alike for quality and quantity, for variety of literature, and for charm of illustration, stands at the top of the poll."

THE MOST POPULAR WEEKLY JOURNAL.

All of us, doubtless, have at least one friend whose companionship we enjoy above all others. Time never hangs heavily in his company; he cheers us up when we are down; he laughs with us, he sympathises with us; he is always ready with tactful advice; every time we meet him he has something fresh to say to amuse and entertain us, and all unconsciously we pick up scraps of information from him which come in handy again and again. In short, he is a jolly good fellow.

MR. WILLIAM LE QUEUX.

"Cassell's Saturday Journal" is such a friend as that. The one aim of the Editor is to make it all that readers could wish. Every line is entertaining to everybody.

Each week there is a chat with or about a celebrity, whose portrait is given. These privileged peeps at the lives and doings of the distinguished men and women of our day cannot fail to entertain.

A new series of articles—each complete in itself—is now appearing, entitled "On the Fringe of the Law: A Series of Disclosures and Warnings," by the "Saturday Journal" Special Commissioner.

Such authors of repute as Headon Hill, George Manville Fenn, Halliwell Sutcliffe, John Bloundelle-Burton, Frank Barrett, and Mrs. C. N. Williamson have contributed serial stories to its pages. Mr. William Le Queux's new story, "The Woman at Kensington," now appearing, is of such great human interest that it cannot fail to enhance the "Journal's" reputation.

"Matters Feminine" are also dealt with; and those humorously inclined are catered for by the page of humorous illustrations; while in "Everybody's Business" we have a weekly talk about general matters.

A feature of special importance is the unique free insurance.
